Woman's Congress To Parallel Men's At Next Session

Proposed Parliament to Meet When Congress Re-convenes Will Discuss Same National Issues.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—An unofficial Congress, composed of women, will meet and discuss the same subjects as the Federal Congress, beginning next December, according to an announcement made today by Mrs. Oliver H. Belmont, President of the National Woman's Party.

This parliament of women will assemble in a building on Capitol Hill. Eventually a parliament building, for which plans have been made, will be erected and will be the headquarters for the movement to make the Women's Party a third national party.

Mrs. Belmont said that when she founded the organization and purchased three large buildings opposite the Capitol, she had then planned to bring together women of the United States into a parliament to debate the same subjects as in Congress. This plan, she said, would give the country the views of the women and sentiment expressing the united opinion of intelligent women, she believed would have an important effect upon political morale, tending to improve not only the character of legislation, but the personnel of members of Congress.

The parliament of women will be organized along the same lines as Congress. There will be members of the House from each State in proportion to the vote, and each State will have two senators. The members of the first parliament will be chosen by the State organizations of the National Woman's Party. Later an effort will be made to have them elected by the members of the party through State conventions.

Mrs. Belmont came here from New York today and conferred with other officers of the party, including Miss Alice Paul, on the plans. The buildings will be renovated and an assembly hall designed, with rooms for committee meetings. This parliament will devote itself chiefly to questions interesting women, including the agitation for a constitutional amendment giving women the same rights as men.

"I do not approve of women going into men's political parties," said Mrs. Belmont. "They lose everything and gain nothing. They simply fortify a situation which we aim to attack."

Annual Meet Of N. C. Good Roads Ass'n. Begins Thu.

(By The Associated Press)

RALEIGH, N. C., May 2.—With addresses by Governor Cameron, Morrison, Frank Page, highway commissioner, Charles M. Upham, engineer, and others directly interested in road construction in the state on the program, the annual convention of the North Carolina Good Roads Association is scheduled to be held here tomorrow.

W. C. Boren, president, C. S. Wallace and Leonard Tuffs, vice-presidents, Miss Hattie M. Berry, secretary, and M. E. Hogan, treasurer, are among the officials expected to be in attendance. The work of the highway commission and plans for the next two years probably will be the most important subject discussed during the conference. Another important question, however, will be the cost and difficulty of building in certain eastern and western sections of the state. Service commission in connection with paving programs and other public construction also will be discussed.

The North Carolina Good Roads Association has been very active during the past seven years, 1917-1922, in organizing public sentiment and conducting legislative work, through three regular and two special sessions of the legislature, resulting in the issuance of $65,000,000 in bonds for road construction, the appropriating of $2,000,000 a year for state road maintenance, the working out of what is regarded as the country's best state road law, and the establishment of the best highway department in the country.

Miss Berry wrote in her letter of announcement: "Our association has done all this at a total cost of between $25,000 and $30,000. The Western Good Roads Association spent over $100,000 in its initial campaign for $50,000, 00 in bonds issue. Illinois spent a like amount in getting its bond issue of $60,000,000. Virginia has spent over $100,000 without results, and similarly costly campaigns have been conducted in other states."

"When one considers how efficiently, how economically and thoroughly our work has been done, it seems all the more important that such an organization should be maintained to see that the future of this great public undertaking is protected from politics and enlarged for the public good and the duty of each of us in backing up this organization and its work as obvious."

In a sketch of the work of the association, Miss Berry calls attention to the following persons, expressing appreciation of their activity in behalf of highway construction: W. C. Boren, Greensboro; T. L. Gorman, Haywood County; John Sprunt, Hillsboro; H. D. Williams, Dupont; Charles S. Wallace, Carteret; J. Q. Gilkey, McDowell; Charles Whitmore, Pasquotank; Mrs. Mary Martin Shoop, Avery; T. L. Kirkpatrick, Charlotte; Horner Jackson, Charlotte; T. L. H. Moore, Hendersonville; and others.

The work of the highway commission and the department operating under it also were praised by the secretary, who took a leading part in the fight for highway legislation when the association first was organized, and through the following sessions of the North Carolina general assembly.

"Now that the old North State has set her feet forward in the onward march of progress, deriving opportunity to none of her sons and daughters in transportation, and in all those things which perforce must come through combined effort," she asserted, "it is felt by those who have served in the ranks that no small share of the credit and honor for maintaining these great currents of community enterprise should be a credit to the North Carolina Good Roads Association."

Good Morning Judge!

(By The Associated Press)

A row, involving four colored women, which took place on Newton street Monday, was thoroughly aired in the police court this morning. The docket as a brief one, and as time was plentifully the mayor permitted the participants and witnesses to talk to their satisfaction. After it all had been straightened out—or about as straight as was possible—fines of six dollars and costs were imposed on Liza Crone, Catherine Smith, Ruth Riley and Anna Belle Moore. The latter appeared originally in the role of a witness but as the evidence came out she was originally involved while the other hand Harvey Morton who at first faced a charge, shuffled out of the courthouse with no charge against him.

From the testimony Liza Crone and Elizabeth Smith engaged in a fight with Morton on Monday night. The fight was also evidence that Ruth Riley and Anna Moore were around with knives. Harvey Morton was on the scene with a brick in each hand but no one stated that he used them. The Smith negroes received numerous cuts and bruises on the face. It was a similar occurrence which is frequent in that section and the nature of the trouble and source of the fight are too trivial for details.

Another disturbance case involving two negroes which took place yesterday back of Broad street was heard but this time too, it all happened over nothing and they were told to get out and keep away from each other. They were Betty Pope and Mandy Harrison, the latter charging the former with cursing her out and threatening her.

The only other case this morning was a charge of operating a machine on improper license tags, this being against Fitzgerald who was fined five dollars and costs.

Brooke Temple Is At Los Angeles

Relatives of Brooke Temple who six weeks ago last Monday, left here alone in his automobile for Los Angeles, yesterday received a telegram from him announcing his safe arrival on the Pacific Coast. He reported a fine trip without any untoward incident. Mr. Temple made no effort to cross the continent at a lowered speed record, but spent a week at some places and three or four days in others. While he left here alone, he reached Los Angeles with a friendly dog which apparently became attached to him at one stage of his long journey.

Y. W. C. A. TO ESTABLISH CLEARING HOUSE FOR DATES

A real community need has been a "Clearing House for Dates"—a sort of bureau of information to which all organizations carrying a program might turn in their effort to plan an event that would not overlap with the plans of others. The Young Women's Christian Association is about to establish such a "Clearing House for Dates." A carefully compiled card index, which will be available to any one desiring to use it, will be kept. Letters are to be sent to all civic, religious, fraternal and social organizations advising them of the plan and urging their co-operation in this much needed scheme. The general secretary, Mrs. Estelle J. Hinshelwood of the Y. W. C. A. will keep in touch with the secretaries of other organizations so that all coming events may be in possession of the Y. W. C. A. at an early date as possible. Once a week there will be published in the papers a "Calendar of Events" so that the information may become general.

It is hoped by establishing the "Clearing House for Dates" many embarrassing situations may be overcome. The Chamber of Commerce heartily endorses this plan.

BACK FROM FLORIDA.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Cook and T. H. Eldridge have returned from a two-week visit to Miami where they report having had a delightful time. Mrs. Cook and Eldridge who came home on Saturday, brought with them a healthy tan evidence of their outing. Much of their time was spent fishing in the gulf. They brought with them a photograph of a six-foot sailfish which Messrs. Eldridge and Cook with the help of a boatman landed after an exciting fifty-minute fight.

Study Industrial Progress In N. C.

(By The Associated Press)

RALEIGH, N. C., May 2.—Hal H. Stanley, commissioner of commerce and labor, and Sam J. Slate, member of the industrial board, both of Georgia, have been spending several days in North Carolina studying this state's industrial progress in connection with a campaign for manufacturing enterprises to be conducted in Georgia.

The two Georgians spent Sunday and Monday in Raleigh, leaving here in company with M. L. Shipman, commissioner of labor and printing of North Carolina, after conferring with other state officials. Mr. Stanley and Mr. Slate were scheduled to be in High Point today where they planned to inspect manufacturing plants, hold conferences with manufacturers and city officials.

"North Carolina as a result of its great progress in recent years has attracted the attention of the entire country," said Mr. Stanley. "Georgia has been going forward at a pace this year and we believe the time is opportune for a concentrated program of progress."

"We are studying conditions in North Carolina and other states in order that we may be fully prepared for our work. Owing to different conditions and circumstances in Georgia, we may not be able to proceed along the same line North Carolina has followed but we are sure the methods followed here have been and will continue to be an inspiration to all southern states."

Mr. Stanley also is president of a newly organized association in his state—"Georgia Incorporated." This association was formed to obtain manufacturing industries for the state.

In discussing conditions in North Carolina, Mr. Slate declared he had watched progress here with "much satisfaction." He formerly resided in Virginia and also is thoroughly familiar with North Carolina.

W. E. Griggs Passes To His Reward

(By The Associated Press)

W. E. Griggs Jr., oldest son of Magistrate and Mrs. W. E. Griggs, died at the parental home on Paxton street this morning at half past ten. Mr. Griggs had been afflicted for some years, had used various treatments in the hope of shaking off the insidious disease, finally going to Texas in the hope that the dry atmosphere would restore him to health. He remained there two years but returned about a month ago in a serious condition and since his return had been bedridden most of the time. For the past week his condition had been most serious, a critical stage being reached two days ago.

Mr. Griggs was 24 years of age and was born and reared in Danville where he was widely known and a young man with many warm friends in his native city.

He is survived by his parents, a brother, George Griggs, and two sisters, Mrs. H. L. Thomas of this city, and Mrs. Malcolm McNabb of Washington, D. C.

Fifteen Year Old Boy Kills a Snake

The first snake story of the season arrived this morning from Callands where, yesterday, John Marshall, a fifteen-year-old boy, was attacked by a rattlesnake which he succeeded in killing without sustaining injury. The boy was hoeing in a field when he heard the ominous rattle just in time to recognize it. Leaping back he found the snake poised for attack almost at the point where he had been standing. The long-handled hoe which he had been using proved a handy weapon, and at one stroke he cut the snake in two. Later it was spread out and measured approximately four feet, having thirteen rattles.

Roanoke Finds City Government More Expensive

Cost Last Year $1,902,507, or $35.13 Per Capita, Over Twice Cost of Municipal Government Several Years Ago.

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 2.—

Roanoke's city government last year was conducted at a cost of $1,902,507, or $35.13 per capita. This was more than twice the per capita cost of the municipal government in 1917, $15.53, or 1914, $16.75.

The total revenue receipts for 1922 were $1,574,452, or $29.07 per capita. The per capita excess of governmental costs over revenue receipts was therefore $6.06.

Property taxes represented 65.1 per cent of the total revenue for 1922, 75.5 per cent for 1917, and 69.9 per cent for 1914. The increase in the amount of property taxes collected was 11.0 per cent from 1914 to 1917, and 101.3 per cent from 1917 to 1922. The per capita property taxes for the three years were $13.92, $11.50, and $21.43, respectively.

Earnings of public service enterprises operated by the city represented 2.3 per cent of the total revenue for 1922, 10 per cent for 1917, and 10 per cent for 1914.

Business and non-business licenses were 13.6 per cent of the total revenue for 1922, 12.3 per cent for 1917, and 16.7 per cent for 1914.

The net indebtedness of Roanoke was $30.54 per capita in 1922, $42.04 in 1917, and $42.65 in 1914. The large increase in the debt is due to recent bond issues for extensive improvements, the issue for school purposes alone being $1,000,000. Street improvements and fire department also took large amounts.

Of the $35.13 per capita tax, $20.44 went for expenses of general government, $0.25 for expenses of public service enterprises, $3.33 for interest on the city debt, and $11.11 for outlays.

The assessed valuation of property subject to ad valorem taxation for city corporation in 1922 was $61,450.

Pathetic Plea Is Made By Indians About Old Homes

BY FOREST WHITE

LOS ANGELES, May 1.—A pathetic plea that they be allowed to retain at least a portion of the home of their ancestors came today from the Agua Caliente Indians of southern California. Hemmed in on the edge of the desert by the white man they now find themselves about to be ejected through operation of an act of Congress. These Canyons, picturesque in the extreme, with a bulking large in the eye of the tourist, are the ancestral holdings of these, the last of the California redskins. If the authorities continue to insist they must pass out of their possession to be transformed into "National Parks."

These southern California Indians ever have been the Jesper of the whites. It has been the history of the land that they do not "recognize progress" so the whites say. This opinion, with their wholly illogical and settlement view that they ought to be allowed to remain in possession of enough land to live their lives in their own way—the only way open to them—has had to be overcome. In many instances it has been as easy as the rule in the case of Old Posey, last war of chief of the Utah Putes, who fell a few days ago with his rifle in his hand facing the whites. That there are a few of these original settlers or California left, even in the waste places where they have been compelled to retreat step by step against the advance of civilization, is no fault of the latter settlers, the inexorable law of the survival of the fittest is not of the latter's making. Any race that meekly surrenders time after time and abandons its homes to take up others much less attractive is certain to have a hard time to survive.

Palm Springs, on the edge of the desert has become a fashionable resort. The desert near it is being made to bloom. Pests of exploitation now call it "our own" araby. Palm Canyon is one of the beauty spots of the world, a wonder land where leafy trees abound by natural growth. Andrews and Medeo Canyons also are beauty spots. Too bad that they are the last homestead and property of the Agua Caliente Indians.

The last Congress passed a park authorization act designed to bring the three canyons into the park system. The Indian owners of the land were not consulted. Of course, it was asserted, they would be glad to sell the land. Why should they be if it meant money in their pockets?

These foolish Indians, just like others who now have vanished from the picture, do not want to give up these lands. They have met and agreed they have no desire longer to be chased from pillar to post. They so informed the authorities at Washington.

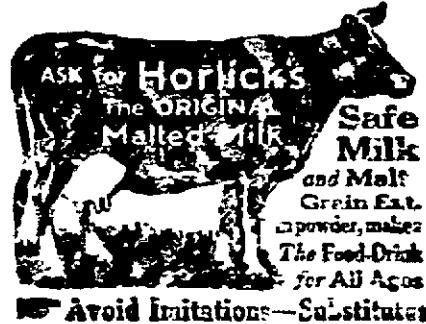

But the white people who are determined to enjoy the canyons and use them as the lure to attract tourists to the section, decide to be backed by a band of "silly Indians." They in turn have sent word to Washington the provisions of the authorization act ought to be carried out. The Indians would be better off with the money and they insist, they are destroying the wonderful palm trees and if left in possession will despoil the natural beauty of the three canyons.

This latter allegation has brought forth a rejoinder from the Indians. Their reply is called "nonsense" by the whites, a lot of "foolish sentiment" but here is where Pedro Cimmo, chief, Francisco Patencio and Lee Arens, representing all of the Indians say:

"We have seen many articles in newspapers about the Agua Caliente Indians, and about Palm and Medeo and Andrews canyons and we have been told about the same things. Some say the palm trees are threatened with destruction because our cattle eat the palm leaves while Indians burn palm skirts in their ceremonies."

"So today we ride all over the canyons and we look very carefully everywhere to see what damage has been done. We cannot see any damage only Mr. Croe has used palm leaves to make him a house and Mr. Loney has used palm leaves to make him a house. Everything is just the same as it always has been since we remember and some of us is nearly eighty years old. We keep them, the palms, always as they have been. Some times there is fire and some leaves burn off."

"Fires are in cities too and burn houses where the police are. But they do not grow again, palms get new leaves and new trees grow up and there are always as many big ones. Our cattle do not hurt the palm trees. These canyons are the

PORTABLE COURT IS LATEST TERROR OF THE MOONSHINERS

THE MISSOURI "MOVABLE MOONSHINE COURT" IN ACTION.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 2.—When the moonshiners wouldn't come to Mohammed, Mohammed went to the mountain.

And in this twentieth century, if bootleggers and moonshiners won't come to court, make the court go to them, say officials of Clay county, Mo. Liberty, county seat of Clay county, is the center of a populous district adjoining Kansas City. The spread of bootlegging and secret making of liquor has caused trouble in the last several months.

So a "gipsy" court has been organized and the county now has a portable judiciary.

The "gipsy" court uses a half dozen speedy motor cars and swoops down upon suspects, conducts a search, holds a trial and speeds away to jail with convicted offenders—all within little more time than it takes to tell it.

In the caravan is Sheriff Joseph Dign, Undersheriff M. L. Swanner and Prosecuting Attorney Raymond Cummins.

The sheriff and deputies go ahead. When they enter a house and find a still or contraband liquor, they call in the judge and court is convened on the spot.

Evidence does not have time to be lost or spirited away. Justice is meted out without red tape.

Most of the prisoners taken by the traveling aggregation, plead guilty. Recent convictions include a woman who is serving time in jail for selling intoxicants in her home.

only places we have for our cattle for grazing and water when there is not much rain like last winter. And not much rain like last winter. And if we have our cattle in other parts of our land white men shoot them. So we must keep in our canyons to make a living. White people have taken away so much water and our best land so we cannot raise crops like we used to do.

"Two times every one of us has said we do not want to sell our land for any money. It is our old land. We get wood and water there. We want to keep them always instead of money. We have them kept this way a long time. If the government lets us control we will always take care of them so we will be like this for everyone to see. We do not care if people camp in our canyons so they get permits from us. Every body can use it just the same as a park so they get our permission. So we hope we can keep our land which we have left."

Despite the appeal the movement to have the government take over the properties is being pressed here.

CHATHAM MAN WAS HONORED

PINEHURST, N. C., May 1.—Scientific lectures on density were given here today at the joint convention of the North Carolina and Virginia Dental Association by members of the two bodies and by experts from other states.

Dr. M. D. Rudd, of Richmond, a past president of the Virginia organization discussed the construction of partial dentures by an indirect method. Other speakers included Dr. Loren Sayre, Chicago; Dr. L. W. Osl, Pittsburgh; and Dr. Clinton C. Howard, of Atlanta.

Automobile trips, golf and the races featured the program for the afternoon which was set aside for entertainment.

The executive committee elected is as follows:

(By The Associated Press) ST. JOSEPH, Mich., May 1.—A former disciple of Benjamin Purnell and a bride and groom, fresh from the latest group wedding of the House of David, passed before the grand jury today in the investigation of charges of immorality at the colony of Purnell's religious cult.

The one time disciple, of Mrs. Estelle Mills told of her experience up to the time she left the House of David, in 1913, taking her mother with her.

Behind she left a sister, Edith Meldrum, who is now one of Purnell's leading followers. Miss Meldrum is to be subpoenaed later to be questioned about details of her sister's testimony today.

Mrs. Mills was followed by Marietta Smith Martin, 20, and her bridegroom S. Ray Martin, 0. They were married Friday after their application for a license had been held up two days by an order of Attorney General Daugherty.

Attorney General Daugherty, Assistant Attorney General Homer and Judge Dingeman have not yet decided when to take up the investigation of alleged irregularities in the burial of the House of David dead, and rumors that the body of a young girl who died in the colony bore finger marks on her throat. That phase in the inquiry has been postponed for the present to permit complete in the angles already developed, but it is practically certain Judge Dingeman will order the exhumation of at least two and possibly more bodies from the colony's burial ground.

MURDER CHARGE AGAINST TEACHER

LAFAYETTE, La., May 1.—An affidavit charging Miss Jessie Fultz, high school teacher of Scott, La., with murder in connection with the sending to Duncan, Ark., of a parcel post package containing the body of a new born baby, last month, was filed here today by Deputy Sheriff Klinton Campbell before Judge William Campbell.

Miss Fultz, who was arrested at Scott last Saturday by Postoffice inspectors was taken to Opelousas yesterday for arraignment before a United States Commissioner. She waived arraignment and made bond for $2,500 for appearance on a charge of sending non-mailable matter through the mails.

Sheriff Lattolais of Lafayette Parish went to Opelousas yesterday with a warrant for her arrest but owing to the seriousness of the young woman's physical condition, the warrant was not served.

Miss Fultz, according to the authorities, admitted that she mailed the package but declared the infant was dead when born.

NOW IS THE TIME FOR BEST EFFORTS

SARDINIA TO HARNESS WATER

ROME, May 1.—An artificial lake 15 miles long by two miles wide is being constructed in Sardinia to harness the water-power of the swift flowing River Thiro. It is proposed to develop millions of horse-power, and the project is said to be one of the largest ever attempted in Europe. Besides the development of power the lake will serve a double purpose in irrigating a vast area which, up to the present, has been nothing but a barren waste.

The production of grain in the low plains through which the river runs is expected to be augmented threefold. Hitherto these plains have been nothing but marshy lands where cultivation has been undertaken only under the most difficult circumstances. With the Thiro harnessed, the distribution of water will be maintained and controlled to suit the needs of the uplands, and the whole area transformed into a productive plain.

The marshy character of the low basin has made it unhealthy. Control of the river will convert the stagnant districts into healthy fields and permit their cultivation with the assurance that malaria will no longer be present.

The immense hydraulic force which will be developed by the drop from the lake to the plain is expected to give a great impetus to Sardinian industry, and the mines throughout the island will be capable of greater output through the acquisition of cheaper power.

SHERIFF HEISER SLAIN IN FIGHT

(By The Associated Press)
SCOTTS BLUFF, Neb., May 1.—After a gun fight in which Sheriff Heiser of Ogallala, Nebraska, was slain, Harold Allen, accused as the slayer of Policeman Albert Patterson on Scotts Bluff, was captured on a ranch near Keystone, Neb., today, according to word received here.

Allen will be taken to Ogallala immediately, according to the chief of police at Keystone, who stated that Allen was wounded seriously.

DRUGGIST MAKES GREAT DISCOVERY FOR INDIGESTION

New Cordial Called "Anti-Ferment." Originated by a Druggist and Recommended by Physicians, Neutralizes Acid Condition of Stomach, Prevents Fermentation and Brings Instant Relief.

MONEY BACK IF YOU ARE NOT PROMPTLY RELIEVED

Indigestion and its attendant ills such as dyspepsia, heart-burn, sour stomach, gripping pains, dysentery, diarrhoea, colic, cholera morbus, chronic constipation, etc., and even sick, nervous headaches are now directly traceable to disorders in the digestive organs.

The food source before it is fully digested, thus putting into solution toxic poisons that are absorbed into the system, irritating the intestines and setting up inflammation. To avoid this, you simply have to prevent fermentation by using Anti-Ferment.

Anti-Ferment neutralizes the acid condition of the stomach, cleanses and soothes the bowels, soothes and heals the inflamed intestines and increases the flow of gastric juices, giving quick and certain relief. Get a bottle of Anti-Ferment from your druggist with a guarantee of satisfactory results or money returned. It will improve your appetite, give you restful sleep and make you feel better than you ever felt in your life.—adv.

NINETY-EIGHT OUT OF EVERY HUNDRED WOMEN who have tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for ailments peculiar to their sex, have been benefited by it. What a marvelous record for any medicine to hold! Over 50,000 women replied to a questionnaire recently sent out by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., of Lynn, Mass., 98 per cent. of whom definitely stated that they had been benefited or restored to health by this old-fashioned root and herb medicine. This is a most wonderful record for efficiency, and should induce every woman who suffers from any ailment peculiar to her sex to give it a fair trial.—adv.

DIDN'T WASTE MONEY ON FOOD "The recent campaign against wastefulness in eating did not affect me much as I haven't been able to eat anything but toast and tea for the past five years. Even that would create gas and cause me distress. My weight was down to eighty-four pounds and my complexion muddy. I had frequent pains in the region of my appendix. I am glad I did not listen to an operation as Mrs. Wonderful Remedy has made a new woman of me." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Daugherty Will Push Injunction Against Strikes

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 1.—Attorney General Daugherty declared tonight that the injunction proceedings in Chicago against leaders of railway shopmen who were on strike last year "must be carried to a final conclusion in order that universal strikes which interfere with the transportation of the country shall be a thing of the past."

Mr. Daugherty said he had instructed Blackburn Esterline, assistant solicitor general, in charge of the government's case, to proceed with the presentation of evidence despite the withdrawal of counsel for the various defendants. The case, he declared, will not be permitted to go by default.

Mr. Esterline was instructed to confer immediately with Jacob M. Dixon and Orville J. Taylor, special assistants to the attorney general, who have had for the taking of testimony, and to arrange with them to lay before the court all of the evidence obtained by the government.

In a statement the attorney general said he was determined that his assistants should present the entire mass of evidence obtained "against those who were responsible for the chaos, destruction of property, interruption of interstate commerce and the taking of life brought about by the strike conditions when 400,000 shopmen were directed by their leaders and radicals to lay down their tools, crippling transportation systems, impeding interstate commerce and threatening the food and fuel supply of the entire nation."

The attorney general said he was not surprised at the withdrawal of counsel for the labor leaders, as he had an intimation "as early as yesterday afternoon" that such a step might be taken. Since the granting of the temporary injunction, Mr. Daugherty added, he has steadfastly refused to discuss the merits of the government's case or the requests of the defendant's counsel that he do so.

In his statement, Mr. Daugherty declared that at the time the temporary injunction was granted and since, he presented to the court "cumulative evidence of irreparable damage to the government and the nation, positively the extent and the ramifications of the disorder and law violations, property damage and loss of life caused by the strike."

"Since the injunction was granted," he added, "hundreds of those guilty of violations of the law have been prosecuted and sentenced all over the country." The attorney general had hoped to be present at the court hearing on the government's application for a permanent injunction to permanently direct the conduct of the strike, but he found it inadvisable on account of his health, to go to Chicago.

MAY DAY WAS QUIET IN ALL CONTINENTS

"May Day" in Europe passed off almost everywhere with comparative quiet among the workers who celebrated the day by ceasing work and taking part in parades and assemblies at which chosen orators delivered addresses on themes of interest to them.

Notwithstanding the fact that in the aggregate many thousands of workers participated in the various demonstrations—with the Red Flag borne aloft and the Internationale being sung—there seems to have been a complete lack of attempts to incite rioting or otherwise to infringe upon the tenets of the constituted law.

In the few instances where trouble developed it apparently arose after the regular ceremonies of the day had been carried out by the leaders of the working men. In Paris during the evening while celebrants of the day were coming out of a meeting place there was a clash between them and the police in which a policeman was seriously wounded by a knife thrust and a large number of other persons were injured in free for all fighting.

Likewise in Madrid there were a considerable number of casual fights growing out of the street battle between police and demonstrators.

In Milan two men were killed in fighting consequent to an attempt to prevent the railway men from working while in Corniglia, province of Genoa, another man, a communist, was slain. In Naples several street car employees are reported to have been wounded by the explosion of bombs.

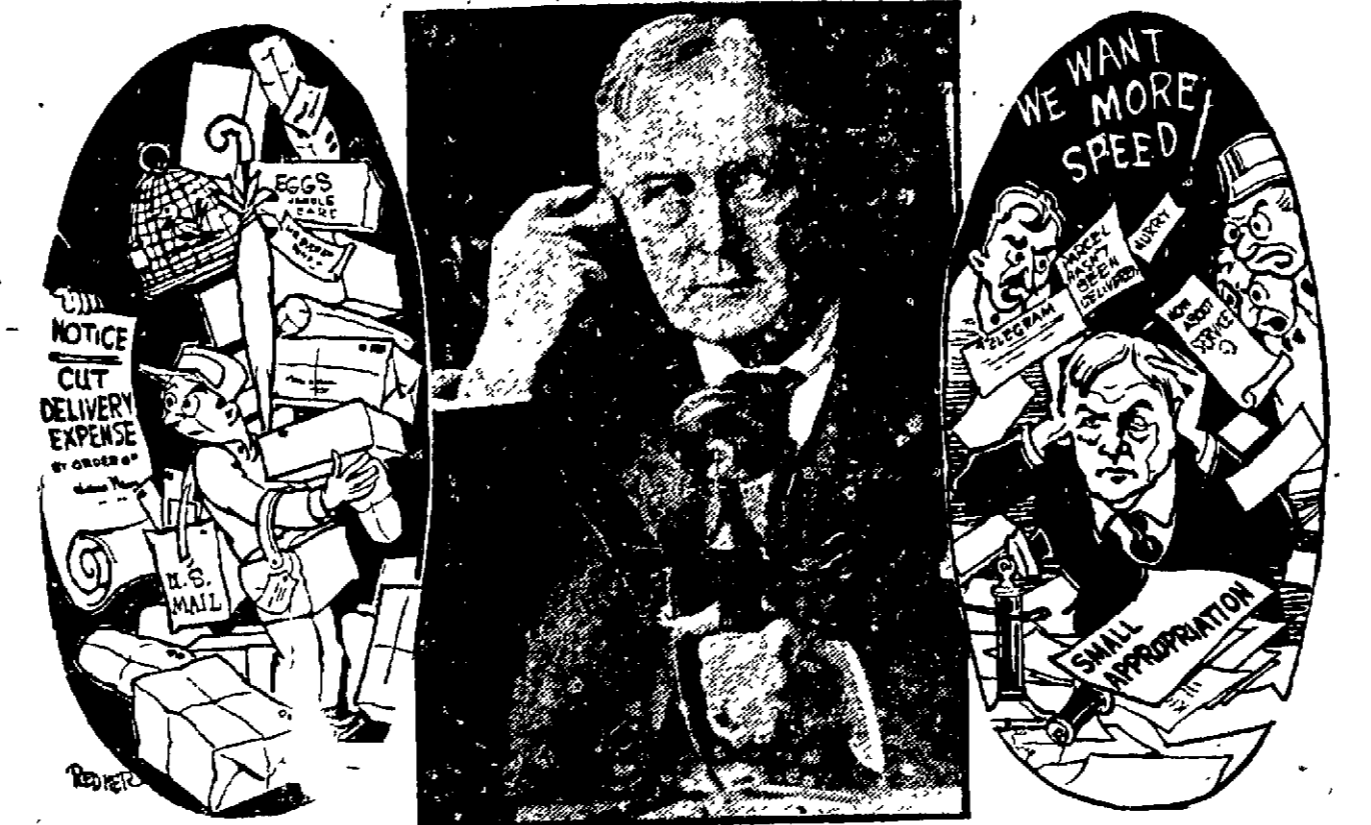

In numerous places a considerable fall off in the celebration was noted.

Too Much Business Irks Postal Head

HARRY S. NEW

By HARRY B. HUNT
WASHINGTON, May 2.—Too much business!

That's what's troubling Harry S. New, postmaster general, at the end of his first month as head of Uncle Sam's postal service.

New, it is officially reported here, is considering violating the law in order to maintain deliveries and to prevent a demoralizing breakdown in postal service.

The "violation" will consist in shifting certain appropriations for maintenance of the service which are rigidly fixed by law to which New, as a senator, supported.

New is reported to have conferred with President Harding with regard to taking this action.

With the volume of mail matter increasing at an unprecedented rate, New and his assistants are trying to devise ways to make the department live within the Congressional appropriation limits.

Early in March, a blanket order was sent to city postmasters to cut delivery expense to the limit. The extent of these cuts was left to the discretion of postmasters. As a result, many postmasters cut more deeply than discreetly. A large percentage of the moushought to re-trench on parcel post deliveries.

In some towns, where two deliveries a day had been made, one delivery was ordered. In New York, where six deliveries were cut to five, the operation was less painful.

But the immediate effect was a loud and nation-wide yelp on the part of the public. The reputation for good mail service, which Will Hays had built up, seemed to be forgotten.

Mail service curtailed—with the volume of business admittedly increasing! Why? Wherefore? What's the big idea? The public wanted to know.

Quick admonition was sent to postmasters that they were expected to use some judgment in effecting the curtailments.

Simultaneously, assurance was handed to the press for distribution to the public, that service, not surplus, is the aim of the postal service and that the mails will be delivered eventually, if not now.

Meantime, with less than three months to go to the end of the fiscal year, a deficit of perhaps $40,000,000 is in sight. There seems no hope of holding it under $30,000,000 and it may reach $60,000,000.

Total appropriations for the year are $573,763,766.50. This is an increase of about 4 per cent. or some $28,000,000 over the expenditures for 1922, which Congress believed would allow for normal postal growth.

A check made on postal business for the nine months ending March 31, however, indicates an increase in the volume of business of 13.12 per cent. or about double the average annual increase for the past 40 years.

Wherefore, Secretary New is having his troubles. The more business, the more the expense and the greater the deficit he must report.

For the postoffice department, unlike a business house, does not increase its income in proportion to increased revenue. All earnings are turned into the United States treasury, and the service is called on to operate within the Congressional appropriation.

Still, postal deficits will be nothing new—no reflection on New! In fact, they're the regular thing. Burleson built up surpluses while postmaster general—and the bigger the surplus, the louder the public yelled for better service.

So, if New goes ahead on his latest "service not surplus" decision, he still may offset the effect of the March retrenchment order.

Goethals Ends His Testimony At Morse Trial

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Major General Goethals, retired, who was the first general manager of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, concluded his testimony as a government witness in the Morse trial, but he will be recalled later by the defense. Two other witnesses, Samuel L. Fuller, a New York banker, who was assistant to General Goethals, and Eads Johnson, of this city, New York district officer for the fleet corporation during part of 1917, were examined, but much of the day was taken up with the identification of documents which the government introduced or will seek to introduce as evidence.

Frequent objections to questions and to evidence offered were made by counsel on both sides. Justice Stafford interrupted the cross-examination of General Goethals to admonish Attorney Rockwood, of New York, of counsel for the defense, not to argue the case in questioning witnesses. At another time Mr. Rockwood charged that government counsel was attempting to present a歪曲 evidence to the jury by introducing official reports as facts instead of questioning their authors as to the facts.

Justice Stafford sustained a specific objection by Mr. Rockwood against the introduction of a report made by Johnson to General Goethals, holding that it contained opinions, hopes, fears and suggestions of the author which were not facts. He directed government counsel to analyze the report and question the witness later as to the facts contained in it.

At the outset today counsel for the defense offered a written motion for leave to file a motion to dismiss the indictments against the defendants, but Justice Stafford directed that the document be accompanied by a written brief. He said he would examine this and then decide whether oral argument would be heard. It is understood that aside from the contention that one of the grand jurors returning the indictments was not a resident of the District of Columbia, the defense will aver that one of the grand jurors was an alien.

F. G. Higely, of New York, who was general counsel for the United States Steamship Company, a Morse concern, and a director of the Groton Iron Works, identified the financial statement as to the assets of the Groton concern which, he said, he delivered to Mr. Fuller. The statement was prepared by Dennis and Young, certified public accountants of New York city, and Fuller testified later that, knowing the reputation of the firm, he had accepted the statement at its face value and had detected that a contract be awarded to the company. The government alleges that in this statement the assets of the company were placed at a figure beyond their true value and that it was upon the basis of this statement that a contract for 13 wooden hulls was awarded the Groton concern.

Besides identifying a number of letters and other documents, Mr. Johnson testified he officially examined the Morse, Nease and Groton, Conn., plants and made reports on them. He said his reports were matters of official record. He said that Chief W. Morse had solicited ship contracts. His cross-examination was under way when court adjourned.

M'GHEE DENIES HE MISTREATED YOUNG MARINE

(By The Associated Press)
FREDERICKSBURG, Va., May 1.—In his answer to the petition filed in corporation court several days ago by Charles Seagraves, a marine from the Quantico barracks, asking his removal from office, Deputy Sergeant Reuben McGhee today denied the charges of mistreating marines on leave in Fredericksburg and insisted that Seagraves resisted arrest. The officer asserts that he used only the force necessary to subdue the prisoner, who, he charges, was intoxicated.

The charges against McGhee were made several days ago, following a meeting of the marines at Quantico, when Fredericksburg was declared "out of bounds" and a fund of $2,500 was raised for the purpose of prosecuting a "cutting" proceeding against Deputy Sergeant McGhee and Callet Jenkins, another officer of the town. The charges against the two officers will be heard in corporation court Friday.

LEGISLATOR IS INDICTED FOR LIBEL BY JURY

(By The Associated Press)
MACON, Ga., May 1.—E. H. McMichael, member of the state legislature from Marion county, was indicted by the Bibb county grand jury here today on a charge of libel in connection with the publication of a letter in the Macon News of March 4, and the Macon Telegraph, of March 5, of an alleged libelous attack upon William A. Crossland, federal engineer.

The indictment charges that Representative McMichael stated in his letter to the press of Georgia that Engineer Crossland advised W. R. Neil, state highway engineer, to purchase a defunct quarry in north Georgia for $90,000 "and thereby pulled in $15,000 of our tax money."

"Graft, pure and simple," the letter continued. "But it is still chief counselor for Neil and the department and he makes them buy cement from the trust of his choice."

"The people of Georgia know that Crossland got that $15,000, and they know, too, that they did not get one-cent value of their $90,000 given for that libelous county stone quarry." The letter, about 2,500 words long, was presented to the grand jury in its entirety.

 WEDNESDAY, MAY 2, 1923.
 A PLEA FOR THE WOODS.

The Danville Garden Club, in common with horticultural organizations throughout the country, is stressing the damage which is being done inadvertently through the dismember-ing of flowering shrubs and trees along the state highways. While this has probably not impressed the average person as a cardinal sin, it is worthy of note that such organizations which make a study of these things are alarmed by the wholesale depredations which are being made on a growing scale each spring, foreseeing the actual extinction within a few years of some of the more precious woodland beauties if the practice continues. The Garden club has been more particularly emphasizing the widespread damage done of recent years to the flowering dogwood—Virginia's flower—which is now splashing many a bosky dell of rich green with its virgin white blossoms.

The damage done each spring more especially by motorists out for Sunday excursions is being stressed because of the large amount of the flowering shrub taken and the manner in which it has been wrenched from the tree leaving it wounded and sickly and very often destined to perish. Motorists who have been seen returning to Danville on Sunday evenings have been seen with their cars covered with the blossoms and judging from the number seen within the past two weeks the ravages among the dogwood trees must have been severe. The Garden Club in making its appeal is not actuated by a desire to deny travelers from enjoying the fruits of the earth but feel impelled to sound a word of caution and to urge less recklessness in tearing the boughs from the trees.

It is interesting to record a translation of a sign which in many parts of Portugal meets the traveler—
 these being erected in gardens, woods and parks. The message runs:
 "Ye who pass by and would raise your hand against me, harken ere you harm me."
 "I am the heat of your hearth on the cold winter nights, the friendly shade screening you from the summer sun, and my fruits are refreshing drafts, quenching your thirst as you journey on."
 "I am the beam that holds your house, the board of your table, and the timber that builds your boat."
 "I am the handle of your hoe, the door of your homestead, the wood of your cradle."
 "I am the bread of kindness and the flower of beauty."
 "Ye who pass by, listen to my prayer; harm me not."

DRAKES BRANCH, May 2.—(Grapevine Wireless.)—When we

 morning we met City Ser-

 "I remember very well an explosion of mine several years ago," continued the Sergeant. "I set a lot of hens one spring and in some way a half dozen duck eggs were put into one of the nests. After the usual 21 days the chicks were hatched out; the duck eggs remained in statu quo.
 It takes longer for duck eggs to hatch
 and as the hen was off the job and busy with her brood, I told the boy to throw them out. He chucked the lot on the manure pile behind the stable and where they soon became covered up and we forgot about them. It went nearly a week later when I was out one morning to feed the chickens and found six little ducklings trying to find their way about. It was a strange sight, but one of the hens mothered them and they turned out fine. I don't care what Bill Keeling thinks about it."
 And now Junius is wondering sure enough.

Prisoner's Mail Is Dope Soaked;

NEW YORK, April 30.—Police
 George Billauer, of the narcotic squad,
 has just discovered an ingenious meth-

 He found the drug was sent to one prisoner by friends who saturated a

 allowed it to dry, and mailed it to the prisoner. The prisoner wet the letter and heated it, thus dissolving the narcotic.
 Billauer learned of the scheme by seeing Ernest Vasimmi swallow a letter while he was in special session

 caine.
 A watch was set on Vasimmi's mail.
 The prisoner was committed to New York County Penitentiary for an in-

"Smoke Away," Expert Tells Us, Nicotine Harmless When Burned

LONDON, April 30.—The danger to smokers from nicotine poisoning is declared by Dr. E. P. Roger to be "so small as to be almost negligible." Dr.
 Roger's opinion is based on experiments conducted by himself to determine the action of fire on the tobacco consumed. He has just published an account of them.
 He first took ten grains of tobacco
 steeped in alcohol and water in order to extract all the nicotine. He said the solution was strong enough to kill a dog weighing 56 pounds.
 He then took a similar quantity of the same tobacco and burned it in a pipe so constructed as to retain all the smoke. The liquid resulting was found to have no worse effect on a dog than a drop of this solution. The dog was of the same weight as the dog which the nicotine had been used with fatal effect.
 Dr. Roger says he found combustion destroys the nicotine, or rather transforms it into creosols, phenols and other substances which if they are rather irritating are nevertheless excellent antiseptics. The pipe or cigarette holder, he says, should be kept clean, but with that danger guarded against there is no other. "In these conditions," he states in conclusion,
 "tobacco may be even good for the health."

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRECOTT TO HER MOTHER, MRS. JOSEPH HAMILTON

I expect you find me a voluminous correspondent, mother dear. But I am in such great trouble, and to whom should I write if not to my mother at such a time?
 Of course you know that both Jack and I had always agreed we would have to have a piano. Jack said one of the things he felt in love with was my music. So that first day when I spent the thousand dollars, when I was passing the best music store in town I thought I would stop in and just look around.
 I saw the loveliest baby grand piano you ever saw. It was only two thousand dollars. I just said that I couldn't pay but 10 per cent. down and a hundred dollars a month until it was paid for.
 I thought, however, it was much more business-like to pay for it all at once and get it over with—he gave me a per cent off for cash. Besides,
 one of the last things he told me was not to go to bed in debt.
 I don't think I ever was so happy
 in my life as I was when I got home that night, but when I sat down to balance up my check book and found that I had spent three thousand dollars and hardly had anything left for the apartment, I was just sick.
 To top the climax I was late for dinner and Jack had been so busy that he had not had any luncheon.
 He was like a raging lion when I arrived.

Brother love can't hope to become universal while its style is cramped by patriotism.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The Basques of Paradise Valley,
 at the instigation of Buck Bodine,
 new owner of the old Webster place, blew up a dam built by Acklin, big boss of the Double A ranch. Mercedes Arrascada tries to save the dam by jumping about a float bearing dynamite to the dam. The float catches fire and Mercedes is rescued by Kildare, one of Acklin's men. Esteban Arrascada is severely wounded in the skirmish-which ensues.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

His head fell forward. The little circle of men grew quiet. Blaze put his ear to the boy's heart.

"He's not dead," he breathed hopefully. "Somebody get my horse. I'm going to get him to a doctor. God knows, he may have a chance."

Acklin said nothing as his men helped Kildare.

"Where've you got Bodine?" he demanded when Blaze had left.

"Got him?" Cash questioned. "I ain't got him nowhere."

"What?"

"No. I ain't seen Bodine. I was just runnin' a windy on the kid. I picked up the fresh trail of three horses this evening. They had come in from Webster Creek. I've been chasin' 'em back and forth tryin' to pick 'em up in the dark, or I'd 'a' been here sooner."

"What made you think Bodine
 was among them?"

"Bucks! You don't think there's anyone else down there with the nerve or brains to do this thing. It took an old hand to make a mine that would rip out that wall. I knew Bodine was behind the whole thing."

"Who do you think was the third man?"

Cash shook his head.

"I ain't even got a guess," Acklin contorted his mouth nervously.

"No matter," he said after an interval. "We'll make Bodine before we get through. We'll all ride to the ranch first. I'm going to turn out every man we've got. Cash, we'll throw a circle over this country that no one'll crawl through. If we pick up Bodine, he'll be among the dead
 departed by morning."

Morrow's eyes bulged.

"You mean you're goin' to stretch
 him?" he gasped.

"That's exactly what I mean,"
 Acklin growled.

CHAPTER XXX
 Among the Ruins

BODINE had relieved Romero of the responsibility of getting Mercedes and Basilio out of the path of the flood. Finding Mercedes gone, Buck picked up the child and dashed for Webster Creek. The explosion came as he entered the ranch-house.

Shorty, lantern in hand, followed him inside.

"Guess we had company this afternoon," he growled. "A lady at that!"

Taking Shorty's lantern, the big fellow followed the trail Esteban and Romero and he had taken that afternoon. A few minutes' search convinced him that his supposition was correct; Mercedes had followed them into the hills! Her only object could have been to stop them. Well, she had been too late, or had missed her brother altogether.

It was the work of a minute for him to pen a note to her. To prove his point with the girl, he made the child scrawl an attempt at his name across the bottom of the note. This accomplished, he sent Shorty to deliver it.

Gloomy and the others lounged
 about the room.

Basilio, in the next room, began crying.

"Nobody shut that kid up,"
 Buck bellowed.

Speculation as to Acklin's disfigurement had worn itself out.
 Gloomy jawed. One of the others got up.

To Get Collection Of Rare Old Coins

(By The Associated Press).
 PHILADELPHIA, May 1.—The forthcoming removal of the Philadelphia Mint's invaluable collection of coins, tokens and medals to the National Museum in Washington has aroused a feeling of disappointment
 in this city.

The collection, begun when the mint was established in 1792, is said to be one of the finest in the world.
 It comprises 1,688 coins minted and used in the United States since the coming of the colonists. There also are thousands of coins representing more than 40 nations.

It is impossible to estimate the exact value of the collection, which includes specimens of the New England shilling, an almost plain silver disc, dating from 1651 and made in the first Colonial Mint, established at Boston without the authority of the English Crown.

There are specimens of the "Franklin cent" minted in copper from 1787
 on. Because of the expression, "Mind Your Business" engraved on the coin,
 it was thought Benjamin Franklin was responsible for the design. This has since been considered improbable. The coin was struck in New York by James Jarvis with whom Congress contracted to coin 300 tons of copper.

A rare five-eagle, or $50 gold piece,
 minted in 1877, is included in the collection, together with Ephraim Drasher's doubloon, struck by a New York jeweler in the eighteenth century.

The greater number of coins are those from foreign countries. There are antique coins from Great Britain, France, Greece, Belgium, Norway,
 Sweden and other European countries. Some of these coins were minted by Imperial cities, such as Augsburg and Bremen, as well as by bishops in Germany.

The collection contains three silver dollars minted in 1804, a half dime of 1792 bearing an eagle flying and the words, "Lib. Par. of Science and Industry—U. S. of America," gold coins struck in Philadelphia which bore for the first time "E Pluribus Unum," coins which carried the motto for the first time the words, "God and Our Country."

There are also a large number of private gold coins minted near the

 by Templeton Reid, assayer of Georgia gold and bearing his name, was issued about 1808. A fifty dollar gold piece was struck by August Humbold, United States assayer, and was made in the shape of an octagon. This practice was approved by the western states where coins were scarce. The state assayer California issued a bar
 silver at its value, weights, et cetera,

MEMORIAL MONUMENT.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—A campaign for the erection here of "a memorial monument to our mothers"
 will be launched on Mothers' Day, Sunday, May 13. In making this announcement, the Federal Council of Churches said the Mothers' Day International Association, which has adopted a Mothers' Day button
 was sponsoring the movement.

 out and was the first to catch sight of the flood-swept home. Both wings of the house were gone. Not a sign remained of barns or corrals.

Melody knew Mercedes had come up beside him, but he could not take his eyes away from the ruins.

The cow-boy nerved himself to face the girl beside him. She was staring fixedly at all that was left of the once beautiful hacienda. It had been the only home Mercedes had ever known. Every childhood memoir centered within its walls. Under other circumstances its destruction would have crushed her; but she had been through too much this night already. Her nerves and emotions had lost the power to react to further torture.

She was dazed by what she beheld.
 She wanted to dash into the ruins and search with feverish haste for Basilio, but a trance-like lethargy enveloped her. It frightened Melody more than tears. His voice quavered uncertainly as he spoke to her.

"Look inside. Look inside, if you'll wait out here."

"No, I'll go with you."

Syracuse Faculty Bars Co-Ed Knees

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 1.—Twinkling legs and dimpled knees of Syracuse University's co-eds may be perfectly permissible in class room and gym, and on the campus, but never, never, can they be subjected to the opera glasses of "bald headed" row. Such is the formal decree of the university authorities. And as a result there will be no musical comedy production by the varsity society, Tambourine and Bones, this spring.

Co-eds cannot appear in T. and B. shows, rules the faculty and, as a result, the university's oldest dramatic society may give up the ghost, it is said.

Five separate petitions made by the most influential students on the campus, including Charles Aufderberg, president of the Tambourine and Bones and of the Interfraternity Conference, failed to soften the decree. "Co-eds shall not take part in the burlesque shows." During the war the co-eds took part in three productions which proved to be most successful.

Members of the faculty, shocked at what they term "a vulgar exhibition," put on the lid.

Then the members of the society voted "No co-eds, no show," and all plans for this year's show have been cancelled.

The girls themselves are just as anxious to take part as the men are to have them. "An outrage," they say. "No outrage," they say. "No intention of changing the ruling," according to Vice-Chancellor William P. Graham.

Mother Makes Stirring Appeal For Her Child

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 1.—Two judges gravely listened today to a stirring appeal on behalf of Mrs. Ada Morris, who is seeking to regain her 12-year-old daughter, Alice Beatrice, taken from her at birth by her own relatives and given to a charitable institution, from where she was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. James Nuttall.

It was a case for a solution to decide if the child was the daughter of the mother as recorded as decided by King Solomon, the mother's attorney declared. In that case, he said, the real mother was awarded her child.

As a result of the strangeness of the case and the fact that Mrs. Morris lived in Chicago while Alice Beatrice resided with her foster parents at Waukegan, Ill., Judge Joseph B. David, before whom Mrs. Morris applied for a writ of habeas corpus, invited Circuit Judge Claire C. Edwards, of Waukegan, to hear the case with him. Under this arrangement it was believed there would be no jurisdictional controversy.

It was a conspiracy that caused the child, then 24 hours old, to be taken from the mother at Sterling, Ill., in 1911, by Mrs. Morris's mother and a sister, counsel for Mrs. Morris declared. "Let," he said, "to give them credit, we must say that they at first demurred to taking the child from its mother. However, the plot was carried through."

"Beatrice was taken from the Illinois Children's Home by the Nuttalls and placed in Ireland," she knew no other parents than the Nuttalls and no other home than their home.

But the mother's counsel declared that Beatrice was taken while the mother was delirious, that while she was in the hospital she was told she was to die and that in that way she was deceived until she grew stronger and was told the truth. She was nearly crazy, the attorney declared; when she applied to the children's home she was dead informed that her child was dead.

For two months wandered about Illinois and Iowa, asking for her child," asserted the lawyer.

"Many times she applied to the charitable institution only to be refused the information she sought."

It was not until 1916 that the Nuttalls applied for adoption papers. Through these legal proceedings, although the child was given a different name, Mrs. Morris finally obtained trace of the Nuttalls. After 12 years search she telephoned to the Nuttalls home and some time later was allowed to see her daughter—but not as the child's mother, only as a friend of the family, the lawyer asserted.

Counsel for the Nuttalls denied the allegation of a plot and declared that Morris abandoned her own child and that at her behest the Illinois Children's Home took the baby.

It could not have been real mother love that caused her to let the baby go to a home, the lawyer asserted, although saying she doubtless had a natural longing for it afterward. He made a plea on behalf of the foster parents who have cared for the child as carefully as though it were their own through the years. He also drew a comparison of the case with that of the Fantine in Hugo's "Les Miserables" which, he declared, was "a real instance of mother love."

De Valera Reaches Turning Point

EAMON DE VALERA AND SKETCHES OF INCIDENTS OF HIS COLORFUL CAREER.

By MILTON BRONNER
DUBLIN, May 2.—If a truce is signed in Ireland between the republican insurgents and the constituted authorities, Eir's most romantic figure may be changed overnight into an everyday frock-coated politician and ex-professor.

But the truce is not yet here and Eamon de Valera today is the most hunted man in Ireland—though he styles himself "president of the Irish republic," issues proclamations and gives out interviews.

Nobody knows where De Valera is. His headquarters are where he hangs his hat—and sometimes he is hatless! His capital is where he happens to be—and he is never in the same place more than a few hours.

He has a cabinet—but the members are rarely in touch with him. He has an army of irregulars—but they seldom see their chief.

He is likely to drink his breakfast coffee in one village and eat his breakfast bacon in another. Between times he has had a narrow escape to what his first time in his life De Valera is the object of a real, by stern hunt. Irishmen are after him as Britons never were.

His adventures as a wanted man began in 1918 when British authorities locked him up. He was transferred to Lincoln prison in England, where he was held until 1919. After his escape he was again hunted by British forces. He returned to Ireland and in the late spring made a tour of America in the interests of his cause.

He did not return to Ireland until Christmas, 1920, so that he was out of the two years of the Black and Tan terror.

It was always in London the British knew exactly where to find De Valera but did not want to arrest him. At that time they were more anxious to lay hands on Michael Collins, chief fighting man of the cause.

After the formation of the Irish Free State and after real hostilities began between the established Irish government and the irregulars, a real hunt was instituted for De Valera.

It was felt by the Free State authorities that if they could lay hands on him, the remnants of resistance to the government would collapse.

But so far all their efforts have been in vain. It is said De Valera is constantly surrounded by a small but very efficient bodyguard of youths, every one of whom is armed to the teeth and is a dead shot.

The other important link in his personal machine is a large body of devoted women, the most ardent republicans in Ireland. It is through them that all communication is had with De Valera.

Ah, Mary. A letter from Tim."

Your questions to De Valera have begun their journey. In this hand-to-hand method the paper goes voyaging around Ireland until finally it actually reaches the man for whom it is intended. In time his answers come back the same way.

This organization of women is not used merely for these interviews and publicity purposes. It is women who act as De Valera's intelligence department, who at night paint defiant messages on the walls of Dublin, who arrange the transport of guns and cartridges.

Thanks to such a system De Valera so far has escaped capture. But he has sometimes had an eyelash finish. I heard of two instances. Late last year a little residence in a prim little Dublin street was raided by soldiers in a back room they found a couple of men's hats. One belonged to De Valera. And the husband was still warm!

The other escape occurred about a month ago. Some troopers learned De Valera was in a farm house. After dusk, rifles in hand, they set off down the country road to surround the place. At one point they heard a slight rustling in a hedge.

"What's that?" asked the officer of the woman who was serving as guide.

"Only a fox slipping through the fields," she responded shortly.

It was De Valera. He was giving the blood-hounds of the law the slip. And the woman, who was guiding the soldiers to where he had been, had shown him where he should be at a certain hour.

IMMIGRATION QUESTION IS CAUSING WORRY

(By The Associated Press)

LAUSANNE, May 1.—The members of the Near East Conference are agitated over the question whether Turkey will swing open her doors to immigrants or shut them tightly. This concern is caused by Turkey's intervention in the discussion of the status of foreigners in Turkey.

Nobody denies Turkey's right to make her own immigration laws, but countries like Italy, with a surplus population, and Greece, whose people have a traditional liking for the shores of Asia Minor, are anxious to know if Ankara has decided to hold Turkey for the Turks.

Although the American representatives did not participate in the discussion, the United States immigration laws were freely quoted in today's debate with respect to the residence of foreigners in Turkey and the conditions of their entry. The allies wanted them to have complete freedom to enter and establish themselves in Turkey subject only to the same restrictions as apply to the Turks.

Ismet Pasha immediately raised the point that this might interfere with Turkey's right to regulate immigration. The allies replied that they had no intention of limiting Turkey's authority to determine immigration but felt justified in asking what Turkey intended to do about immigration and if she contemplated preventing mass immigration like the United States, with the quota system.

The allies contended there was not much use in spending weeks laying down regulations for foreigners if Turkey intended to shut the doors against immigrants. Ismet answered that such was not Ankara's idea, but that Turkey wanted the right like other states to keep out undesirable. A drafting committee will endeavor to write a satisfactory clause covering this subject.

Plan New Florida Auto Camp Parks

TAMPA, Fla., May 1.—Camp grounds for the convenience of motor tourists visiting Florida will be located on all main roads leading from the North to the South with Motor Tourists' Association are car. in a very few years if plans of the association are carried out.

C. J. Brown, who has been in charge of the tourist camp at De Soto Park, is president of the association, which, he states, will be incorporated under the laws of the State of Illinois.

The association is composed of tourists who come to Florida each year in automobiles and camp out during the winter months. It is planned to locate the proposed camps about one day's journey apart. Florida camps will be at Jacksonville, Gainesville, Safety Harbor, Sarasota and other points.

WHEN APRIL COMES
April, how can I let you go,
I who waited overlong
To see your white birch leaf again,
And hear your thrush's song?
April, how can I let you go,
With your rib of rain and sun,
And prism-colored veils of flame
With lyric gladness spun?
April, how can I let you go,
Yet how can I make you stay
An evanescent rainbow flung Across the hills of May;

BOYCOTT TALK AGAINST SUGAR

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, May 1.—The agitation against high prices for sugar with the continued talk of a boycott by consumers and the uncertainty occasioned by the government legal proceedings has had an unsettling effect on the market. Very few buyers were in evidence today and sales of sugar were reported at 6 1/4 cents cost and freight which represented a decline of 3-8 cents as compared with the last previous sale and about one-half a cent per pound as compared with the recent high record.

Vicious Attacks On Scriptures Is Made In Colleges

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 1.—That vicious attacks against the authority and integrity of the Holy Scriptures and the fundamentals of the faith are being made daily in educational institutions of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, were the outstanding charges hurled at heads of the denomination tonight by Rev. W. E. Hawkins, Jr., a Methodist Evangelist, when he spoke before the fifth World Conference on Christian Fundamentals.

Hawkins presented a number of charges, mostly students from Methodist schools to substantiate his claims of heresy in educational circles.

The College of Bishop and other ecclesiastical leaders of the denomination, as well as its membership as a whole, were scored by the speaker for permitting the alleged condition to exist.

The sensational charge against the Methodist schools came at the close of a day replete with thrill for those interested in religion. D. T. Martin, a Baptist evangelist of Blue Mountain, Miss., fired a broadside into the educational system of any state that will permit a system of instruction intended to rob a child of its belief in Almighty God and the infallibility of his written word.

Dr. Martin quoted several passages from text books used in southern states in which the scientific theory of evolution was taught and should not continue.

"I believe its preacher when it says 'In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth' when his school teacher tells him the earth just arrived."

"Will a child believe that God made a man in his own image and every living creature after its kind, when his school teacher tells him that things were brought into their present shape after thousands of years of basking in the sun?"

Throughout the day attack after attack was hurled at the heads of teachers, preachers and laymen who teach or uphold modern thought in theology. That the time has come for a separation of the branch of the church which holds to the literal interpretation of the word of God and that part which considers part of the scriptures allegorical, was expressed on every hand.

Knabb Be Ready In Week To Defend His Camp Record

(By The Associated Press)

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 1.—The investigation into prison conditions at the convict lease camps owned by State Senator T. J. Knabb met with a one-week delay today when Senator Knabb informed the joint legislative committee, which will conduct the inquiry, that it will take at least one week before he could summon all of his witnesses. He told the committee he would be ready next Tuesday morning.

Senator Knabb was informed that there were no allegations against him directly but that it was the purpose of the committee to go into conditions based on reported brutalities against all of his convict camps located in Baker County, and especially the case of Paul Revere White, of Washington, D. C.

The legislator, who is serving his first term in the upper house of the General Assembly, declined to make a statement as to the defense he would offer. He declared he was confident of obtaining a "clean bill."

Mr. Knabb said he still retained several of his convict camps and at the present time worked many of them.

The committee also proposed to summon many witnesses and devote some time to reading over the records submitted by the prison director of the Department of Agriculture. The contents of these records are reports made to the Department of Agriculture by a prison supervisor, J. B. Thomas, a prison warden, and correspondence between W. A. McRae, commissioner of agriculture and Senator Knabb relative to these reports.

Before the committee entered upon the Knabb case this afternoon, the several witnesses testified as to the severity of County Judge B. F. Willis of Leon County, whom Governor Hardee already has recommended to the Senate to be removed from office. The committee last week heard testimony and re-opened the hearing today to permit other witnesses to testify.

A summary of the testimony adduced from W. L. Cooksey, former special officer of the Seaboard Air Line Railroad; Robert McGuffee, Jr., Poppell, former county jailer; W. R. Crowder, a fellow church member of Judge Willis, and J. M. Smith, a city policeman, was that the county judge was an intemperate user of whiskey during the year of 1922.

All of the witnesses claimed they had called upon the county official and found him in no condition to act business, while Cooksey declared the judge offered him a "drink of yellow colored liquor." Poppell testified that "most of all the liquor I drank with the judge was red stuff made in Georgia." McGuffee declared both the judge and his office "were highly perfumed with the scent of liquor."

A hearing by the Senate committee, composed of Senators Stokes and MacWilliams, on the governor's recommendation to oust Judge Willis from office will be held tomorrow afternoon. Judge Willis was cited before the committee on the charge of having entered into a collusion with Sheriff J. R. Jones in connection with the leasing of convicts to the Putnam Lumber Company. Martin Tabert of North Dakota died while under lease to the lumber concern of alleged brutal treatment. The Senate has already approved the governor's recommendation to remove Jones from office.

Senator Knabb today reiterated that he welcomed the investigation of his camps, and declared he realized that the evidence would be against him at the outset, but that he would give his side at the proper time.

Senator Knabb was informed that there were no allegations against him directly but that it was the purpose of the committee to go into conditions based on reported brutalities against all of his convict camps located in Baker County, and especially the case of Paul Revere White, of Washington, D. C.

The legislator, who is serving his first term in the upper house of the General Assembly, declined to make a statement as to the defense he would offer. He declared he was confident of obtaining a "clean bill."

Mr. Knabb said he still retained several of his convict camps and at the present time worked many of them.

The committee also proposed to summon many witnesses and devote some time to reading over the records submitted by the prison director of the Department of Agriculture. The contents of these records are reports made to the Department of Agriculture by a prison supervisor, J. B. Thomas, a prison warden, and correspondence between W. A. McRae, commissioner of agriculture and Senator Knabb relative to these reports.

Before the committee entered upon the Knabb case this afternoon, the several witnesses testified as to the severity of County Judge B. F. Willis of Leon County, whom Governor Hardee already has recommended to the Senate to be removed from office. The committee last week heard testimony and re-opened the hearing today to permit other witnesses to testify.

A summary of the testimony adduced from W. L. Cooksey, former special officer of the Seaboard Air Line Railroad; Robert McGuffee, Jr., Poppell, former county jailer; W. R. Crowder, a fellow church member of Judge Willis, and J. M. Smith, a city policeman, was that the county judge was an intemperate user of whiskey during the year of 1922.

All of the witnesses claimed they had called upon the county official and found him in no condition to act business, while Cooksey declared the judge offered him a "drink of yellow colored liquor." Poppell testified that "most of all the liquor I drank with the judge was red stuff made in Georgia." McGuffee declared both the judge and his office "were highly perfumed with the scent of liquor."

A hearing by the Senate committee, composed of Senators Stokes and MacWilliams, on the governor's recommendation to oust Judge Willis from office will be held tomorrow afternoon. Judge Willis was cited before the committee on the charge of having entered into a collusion with Sheriff J. R. Jones in connection with the leasing of convicts to the Putnam Lumber Company. Martin Tabert of North Dakota died while under lease to the lumber concern of alleged brutal treatment. The Senate has already approved the governor's recommendation to remove Jones from office.

Senator Knabb today reiterated that he welcomed the investigation of his camps, and declared he realized that the evidence would be against him at the outset, but that he would give his side at the proper time.

LADIES DAY ONCE EVERY WEEK IS MURPHY'S PLAN

Manager Murphy stated last night that he had secured the services of Ted Smith, outfielder, from the Washington Senators. Smith is expected to report today. He has also secured an infielder whose name is not known, but who is expected to report today. The infielder is expected to report today. The pink slips were handed to Hutton and Godfrey yesterday. Several other players, mostly pitchers, will be receiving notice in a few days that their services are no longer needed. Saturday is the last day that a club can carry more than 15 men.

Murphy announced yesterday that "Ladies Day" will be a regular institution at Stoneybrook Park at least one day a week to be decided when ladies will be admitted to the park free. It is probable that Tuesday and Friday will be the appointed days. Some Tuesday is not here yet, but when the club is not here on Tuesday it is here on Friday. It was also announced that the regular admission for ladies on other days will be 50 cents. The 50 cent rate, which was the need, had changed but through a misunderstanding Manager Murphy thought the change was 75 cents. The price is now back at the old figure and a situation there will be more, more ladies days.

The club plays in Winston today and tomorrow. Harris will probably be used to start the game today. Tomorrow Culp will probably pitch tomorrow.

SCOTT PLAYS HIS 999TH GAME

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Everett Scott, veteran shortstop and member of the New York Yankees played his 999th consecutive major league game today, against Washington and he will be felled tomorrow in honor of his 1,000th appearance. Scott began his major league career with the Boston Red Sox and went to the Yankees in 1921. A gold medal of honor will be presented by Ben Johnson, president of the American League, at tomorrow's game.

NEW YORK 4; BROOKLYN 3

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 1.—The New York Nationals won their sixth game of the season from the Brooklyn club today by a score of 4 to 3. New York won in the ninth when O'Connell walked took two bases on a wild throw by High and scored the winning run on Bancroft's sacrifice fly after Punch Hitter Smith had been intentionally passed. Home runs by Stewart and High accounted for all the Brooklyn runs.

CHICAGO 3; CINCINNATI 1

(By The Associated Press.)

CINCINNATI, May 1.—Demovich hit Cincinnati helpless in 11 but one out today and Chicago won 3 to 1, going to second place in the National League. The Cubs were a little unlucky, two of the Cubs runs being due to bats on ball while the third was earned by the ninth inning on a sacrifice singles by O'Farrell. Demovich hit in the sixth on a single by Lupton and Ebbets and a wild throw by Heathcote. Score:

DAIRYMEN'S SOY ARE NOT TO BE USED TO DELIVER MILK

RICHMOND, Va., May 1.—Under a ruling of the Attorney General the son of a man engaged in the dairy business may not be employed or used in the delivery of milk in the cities of the state, if the boy is under the prescribed age. The Attorney General holds that such work is not embraced in the exemptions of farm labor, garden work or orchard work. The case in point came from Harrisonburg.

"YOUR COMPLEXION IS JUST WHAT YOU MAKE IT!" SAYS RUBINSTEIN

BY MME. MELENE RUBINSTEIN
(International Beauty Expert.)
(Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

THE shape of your nose or the size of your eyes are matters beyond your control, but your complexion is what you make it.

You can bring it to the point of loveliness where it suggests duchess satin or you can allow it to deteriorate until it seems to have taken the swiss cheese for its model.

In windy countries such as Australia or New Zealand, I have seen girls of 16 more wrinkled than a woman of 60 should be, and in Paris, I have seen grandmothers with ravishing skins.

As you know, the skin is composed of layers of cells with little blood vessels, nerves and glands whose ducts lead to the surface and culminating in pores.

Every cell should contain a certain amount of moisture as this is the natural skin food with which the tissues are kept soft and supple. If anything internal or external interferes with this moisture the skin is robbed of its nourishment and dryness ensues and lines follow.

A dry skin is caused by impoverished blood, nervousness or sometimes by climatic conditions.

For a dry skin I suggest the following treatment each night. First cleanse the skin thoroughly with cold cream. Leave this on for a few moments so it may soften the surface and draw from the pores any impurities they may have. Then when you have removed the cream press in a mild skin stimulant with the fingers or warm compresses. Then pat in and massage with a rich skin food, using sweeping movements covering both face and throat.

I do not approve of water for the dry skin or do I advocate using nothing but cream for cleansing. My reason is that the dry skin is always irritable and unless some cooling liquid is used it will become overheated and develop a tendency to blotchiness.

The ideal method of cleansing the tender skin is to use a cream night

TOMORROW: HOW TO DEFEAT BLACKHEADS.

CHATHAM DROPS GAME TO B. M. A.

(By The Associated Press.)

CHATHAM, Va., May 1.—Blackstone Military Academy outplayed Chatham here today and won by the score of seven to three. Everhart who started for Chatham was not in the game and was relieved at the beginning of the fourth inning by Sanford. In the second inning Blackstone scored one run, and in the third scored four more and sewed up the game. Marks made a home run with one man on third base. Sanford pitched good ball, and allowed only five scattered hits. The two runs scored on his delivery were made on errors. Marks pitched seven innings and received fine support. In the fifth Chatham scored two runs. Mattox batted a home run. Crockett relieved Marks in the seventh inning. In the seventh Mattox hit a three bagger and later scored on Wilson's sacrifice hit. In the seventh inning Wayne started home from third but was thrown out by Wilson's true peg to the plate from deep left field. It was the most sensational play of the game. Mattox's batting was a feature with a home run, three base and two singles at four trips to the plate. Score by inning:

Blackstone . . . 014 011 000—7, 9, 2
Chatham . . . 000 200 100—3, 7, 7
Summary: Home runs, Mattox. Three-base: Marks. Mattox. Two base hits, Steele. Stolen bases, Mattox, Wilson, Steele. Earned runs, Blackstone 3; Chatham 2. Valentine Is Too Much For Patriots

GREENSBORO, N. C., May 1.—Too much Valentine, both in the pitcher's box and at bat, spelled the defeat of the Patriots here this afternoon. It was a slug fest for the visitors and while they were slugging the ball almost continuously while they were at bat, Valentine was puzzling the locals with his twisters. The final score was 11 to 2. The Patriots' only two tallies came in the fourth frame when Centerfielder Graves dropped an easy fly ball, which would have been the third out. Men were on second and third at the time and they pranced home. Lennox and Valentine hit safely three out of four trips to the plate.

CHICAGO 5; ST. LOUIS 3

CHICAGO, May 1.—Chicago bunched hits behind errors by Gerber and bases on balls and defeated St. Louis 5 to 3 today. Lorette pitched in fine form, lowering the visitors to two hits until the eighth inning, when Collins' fumble paved the way for a run. Williams' run smash into the right field bleachers, his fifth of the season and the first on the local grounds this year, netted the visitors two more runs in the ninth. The winning run scored in front of the slugger. Score:

JAMAICA TRACK EVENTS TODAY

NEW YORK, May 1.—The Pausmonk Handicap, noted throughout the year, was the feature of the Jockey Club programs, was scheduled as to tomorrow's opening day card at the Jamaica track, inaugurating New York's racing season of 155 days. A stirring band of runners, as is the custom, were to face the barrier. Fryser won the event from a classy field last year.

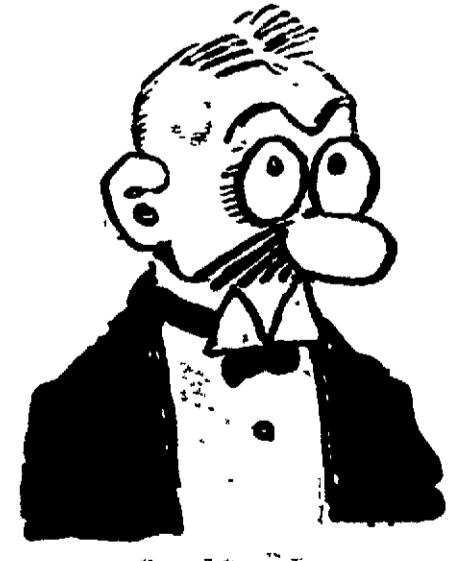

The calibre of the stock in the stakes at Jamaica this year evidences a great deal of improvement over last year when influenza had left its ravaging marks on the various stables. There are no "jaded nags", emaciated steeds of bad wintering, at Jamaica. It has been many years since such a fine gathering of thoroughbreds munched mash in those barns.

There is all sorts of talk about champions in the youngster classes. Last year, they say, was a season of "in-and-outers"—champions one day, dogs the next—but this year "will be a different story. The stock is better, or rather the material is better than either in 1920 or '21, and there hasn't been any disease epidemic to hamper training and winter cooing.

The youngsters being talked of as of championship possibilities are Legion. Their great number probably is due to the fact that the state program of the various New York tracks has been enlarged—there are more chances to do something that will be talked about. As far as the older horses go—the campaigners are new among them—their names are old. Externator, ready to attempt the acquisition of a barn full of stakes to increase his winnings to a figure greater than that of Man o' War before that great runner was returned to a Kentucky stud.

The present Jamaica meeting will have 19, racing days, ending May 23, 1923.

Twins Defeat Locals—Allison's Absence Keenly Felt

Poor Pitching Loses Contest With Winston

Mediocre pitching and a couple of errors at first account for Danville's loss of yesterday's game to the Twins by the score of 10 to 0, after most of the fans thought the locals had the contest sewed up. Brett started off for the Tobaccoconists. He got by until the sixth, at which time Danville had a two-run lead. As has been said, he got by. However, he was constantly in trouble and when Ellington and Winkler hit safely in the sixth Murphy thought it was time for him to be yanked and he acted on that judgment. Hughes was substituted.

This Charlestonian fared very badly, indeed. Before he knew what had happened to him four runs had been scored, and Winston-Salem was in the lead. Then Toles was sent in. The bases were full and only one man out. Toles allowed one hit and two more scored. During the remainder of the game Toles pitched creditable ball.

Winston-Salem scored first in the second inning. Landreth leading singled. Mamby was out on a fly to center. Leard was walked and Anderson doubled. Landreth scoring. Faber singled and Anderson scored. It was not until the fifth that the Twins again counted, though they had threatened several times. An error by Regan, who dropped a thrown ball, gave life to Hambry. Leard then came to the bat and parked the ball over the fence in left field. It was the sixth that the visitors made their big inning. Ellington led off and singled. Winkler also singled. Fuhrey attempted a sacrifice and gave Eddie a chance to make a brilliant play. The ball was a perfect fly twisting in front of the plate. Eddie came forward like a streak, scooped it up and cut off the man at third. However, Black singled and Winkler scored. Landreth singled and Fuhrey scored. Hambry hit to second base and Regan dropped. Murphy's hurried throw and the runner was safe. Leard was then hit by a pitched ball, but after Anderson had fanned Faber singled and two more men scored. Winston-Salem scored no more after the fifth inning, and for the matter, neither did Danville.

Danville's first run came in the fifth inning. Winston walked. Dorman was hit by a pitched ball and Murphy singled. Winston then struck out but Dorman cracked out a single, three scoring. Murphy hit one through third, Trexler singled and Dorman scored.

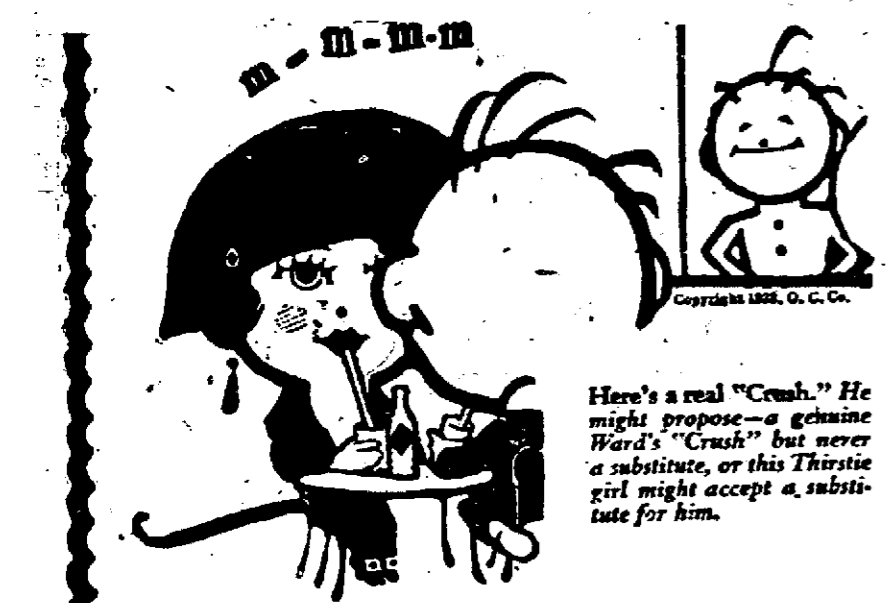

Danville added one more run in the fifth when McEnroe singled and came home on Harris' double. It would appear that Danville's whole infield defense was weakened yesterday by Allison's absence from the game on account of an injured foot.

Regan was shifted to first. He played the unfamiliar position to the best of his ability, but the change affected the whole infield. Manager Murphy stated after the game that he would rather see more of other men than Allison out of the game.

Bill Johnston To Meet Tilden

BY LAWRENCE PERRY

(Copyright, 1934, by The Bee)
NEW YORK, May 2.—Admirers of Bill Johnston, the most popular tennis lawn tennis player in this country, will have opportunity of seeing him in action against the champion, Bill Tilden, a week from today in Central Park. The little Californian who ranks number two in the national rating, sails for England this week to participate in the Wimbledon tournament and his appearance in New York's public park is likely to be his last before he sets sail.

Besides Tilden and Johnston, Vincent Richards and other leading tennis stars will compete as part of the nation wide campaign for the development of interest in municipal tennis plays, a movement which has been gathering great impetus throughout the country. Games will be staged on the public courts in the upper meadow of Central Park, where the natural amphitheatre, surrounded by grand will enable some 10,000 spectators to witness the games.

It will be interesting to observe Johnston's present form and opportunity will also be had to check up on Tilden's game with the national campaign, and also a nucleus for a war chest against the time when we may have to send our players abroad for Davis Cup play.

Little Bill will have additional incentive to win at Wimbledon because this is the last year in which the title "world champion" will go to the winner of the great English tourney. Capturing this title, Johnston would return for play the next season with the knowledge that by winning in our singles tournament at Germantown he would beyond peradventure be a real world's champion.

One of the reasons why American can player of note participated in the play at Wimbledon last year was because the United States Lawn Tennis Association did not approve of the action of the International Federation in granting the title to name the Wimbledon winner the world's champion. Out of deference to our attitude, the English Association relinquished this right beginning next year and Johnston's appearance this season will unquestionably be accepted as in some sense marking our appreciation of the magnanimity of our tennis cousins.

Kinks o' the Links
by PRO

In stroke competition a competitor plays a stroke with a ball other than his own. He then discovers the mistake. Has he the right to play his own ball or is he disqualified for his action in playing the ball of his competitor?

If the mistake is discovered after playing only one stroke no penalty is attached. He has the right to play his own ball. However, should he play two consecutive strokes with the wrong ball he is disqualified.

In dropping the ball, a player in following the usual conditions, so lets the ball fall over his shoulder that it strikes his leg and is deflected into a hazard. Is there any penalty if the hazard is the person of the player dropping it and must he play the ball from the position in the hazard?

There is no penalty if the ball strikes the player in dropping it. If it rolls into a hazard the player may redrop it without penalty.

Satisfaction in Tires

MORE new passenger cars leave their factories on Goodyear Tires than on any other make. This means that automobile manufacturers are convinced of Goodyear superiority.

Nearly everybody realizes that the best tire is the cheapest in the long run. Tires that give long, satisfactory service make possible low mileage costs.

We sell Goodyear Tires, Tubes and Accessories because we KNOW they give the most satisfaction under all conditions.

Let us show you, as we have shown many others, the sure road to tire economy and satisfaction.

8 MEMBERS OF PIRATE TEAM IN AUTO CRASH

ST. LOUIS, May 1.—Eight members of the Pittsburgh National League baseball club and Sam Dreyfus, secretary, and son of Barney Dreyfus, president of the club, narrowly escaped serious injury here late today when an automobile in which they were returning to their hotel from the ball park crashed into a truck and was demolished. Of the nine, only the driver, Jimmie Maddox, recruit catcher, were injured, both slightly.

Adams suffered a bruised leg, flying glass inflicted a deep gash on Maddox's left hand, and all of the occupants were shaken up severely.

The other players in the car were Wilbur Cooper, Whitey Glazner, Johnny Morrison, Reb Russell, Traynor and Spencer Adams, recruit infielder.

The accident occurred when the automobile crashed into the truck, which had come to a sudden stop, and caromed over the sidewalk and through a plate glass window.

Lascelles Objects To Movie Star Role

LONDON, April 30.—Viscount Lascelles, Princess Mary's husband, objects to being called a film star. He has appealed to the Home Office to prevent release of a film of the Bramham Manor hunt in Yorkshire, in which he appears as master of the hunt.

The film, "The Hunt," is being made at Goldborough Hall, his country seat. It was shot in the permission, but when the advance notice was given to him as a "film star" he asked them to cancel the film.

The producers refused and will exhibit the picture next week unless Viscount Lascelles gets action from the Home Office or an injunction from the courts.

Twelve Million Pounds of Tobacco

Went up in smoke in London recently. Of course that is the way most tobacco goes, but this was wholesale conflagration due to a burning warehouse. To the owners it meant a huge sum of money burned. By the way, haven't you noticed that the man with money to burn is seldom the one who burns it? That's why he has it. Don't keep money in your pockets where it burns holes. Put it in the COMMERCIAL BANK where it DRAWS INTEREST.

FLORIDA SENATE DELAYS ACTION ON PUNISHMENT LAW

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 1.—The Florida Senate tonight decided to postpone final consideration of a measure to prohibit corporal punishment of prisoners in this state, and in what generally was considered a test vote, the advocates of banning the strap lost 13 to 16.

The Senate voted to send the original measure relating only to corporal punishment, with all amendments that have been offered dealing broadly with supervision of convicts to a special committee of five to work out a bill reconciling the conflicting laws and report back to the Senate.

The bill when reported back will be a special order of business until definitely disposed of.

The test vote came on an effort by Senator McWilliams to direct the committee to incorporate in its recommendations all punishment against corporal punishment.

"We have considered the question of corporal punishment for two days," Senator McWilliams said, "and I am sure every one is fully informed on it. Let's have a showdown now. It's the law in the minority let it be so recorded and we are in the majority let it be so recorded."

The night's proceedings started with a motion by Senator Phillips that the whole matter of punishment and subdivision of convicts be sent to a committee for study with a view to working out a plan after mature judgment.

Senator Lindsey offered a substitute motion that such committee be organized.

The committee was comprised of the Senator who introduced the original measure to abolish corporal punishment Senator Hodges and those who had offered amendments. Those men have all shown that they are interested in this problem. Senator Lindsey said. He deprecated the excitement under which he said the Senate had been acting. "If we can't control ourselves, how can we consider measures to control convicts," he asked. He expressed the hope that his motion would not be considered a dilatory move, asserting that he was ready then and there to make his position known on the subject of corporal punishment. "But if we send all these amendments together with the original measure to a committee for mature consideration perhaps we can solve this question; certainly it is the wisest course confronting this session."

Senator Taylor also asked that more time be given to the question, asserting that he had thought he was prepared to vote recently on it, but he had come to the conclusion that he was not ready to vote on the question at this time.

Senator Briggs today read from an authority on prison reform to show that every civilized nation except Russia has done away with the whip in the handling of prisoners. The authority stated, had found better means while only a few states in this country still resort to the whip. Of course the few remaining southern states to retain it. Georgia recently banned it by executive proclamation. Mr. Hodges contended.

Yesterday's Answer:
The men crossed the river in the boat, which could hold only one man or two children, at a time, by the following method. The children paddled the boat across the river. The first child stayed on the other side while the second child brought the boat back. Then a man crossed the river, and sent the boat back by the first child. This operation was repeated until all the men had crossed.

Remark on Burglary Alarms—Churchgoer

BALTIMORE, April 30.—A chance remark by a "bait bird" perched on a marble balustrade in Mount Vernon Square last night caused a tremor of excitement among the congregation of St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church, Park avenue and Monument street, and residents in the vicinity.

A parishioner en route to services heard the casual remark: "That church up there would be a cinch for any burglar."

The remark, probably, was apropos of possible robberies in the rich district surrounding Washington's monument, but the worshipper was not taking chances.

Charles L. Galtier, Police Commissioner, was informed and several detectives were dispatched to the church. They found a late hour the church was watched.

NEW BOARD IS GIVEN FUNDS

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, May 1.—Contributions from every state to the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, exceeding $800,000 were formally transferred today from custody of the national committee to the new board of trustees. The board, which will from now on administer the affairs of the foundation, was selected by the executive committee earlier in the day.

Ernest M. Hopkins president of Dartmouth College, Hanover, N. H., was elected president of the board; Franklin D. Roosevelt, former Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and Henry Morgenthau, former Ambassador to Turkey, were chosen vice presidents; Mrs. Katherine Ely Tiffany was elected secretary; the Central Trust Company of this was designated as treasurer.

The first award of the foundation will be made in November of this year, it was announced. The recipient will be chosen by a jury to be selected by the board; Mr. Roosevelt said the award will be based upon recognition of an accomplishment which will be of benefit to the world we associate with President Wilson.

Breath Smeller Now Rival to Tea Taster as Essential Calling

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 30.—Tea tasters long have been officially recognized as necessities and justly high salaried. Today they have a rival profession. It is the noble order of "Breath Smellers" Working in Utica, N. Y. The order was organized by Smith and Baker, who gave evidence upon which they obtained a search warrant, Smith testifying as a whiskey taster and Baker as a breath smeller. The word of Smith who drank the whiskey alone was not enough. Corroborated by Baker, who smelled his breath immediately after it, brought the warrant. And the warrant led the two to the establishment of Charles B. Auer, of Utica. They allege they found a quantity of whiskey, gin, wine and 300 bottles of home brew.

ENOCH DENIES HIS CONFESSION

RICHMOND, Va., May 1.—Joseph Enoch is alleged to have repudiated his entire confession regarding the murder of Miss Celia Shevick, the school girl. He is reported to have said the detectives "hammered it" out of him. The detectives and the judge deny that there was coercion, that force was employed or that any confession was made. They say the story that Enoch had confessed much that was not true, and they claim to have ample evidence to convict him on either of the two charges on which he is held. Members of Enoch's family are reported to have taken the ground that they can establish an alibi, but the police laugh at this. His case will be called Friday.

V. P. I. OFFICERS WITHDRAW RESIGNATIONS; NOW ON DUTY

(By The Associated Press)
BLACKSBURG, Va., May 1.—Following the conference between the Virginia Institute of Police Officers and the faculty, certain questions involving what is really embraced in student government remain unsettled. One will be called before a committee composed of students and the faculty. This will require time, but it is believed that the details will be worked out satisfactorily. According to statements received from sources here the wholesale resignations followed the action of a few year men who violated some of the rules laid down by the students governing the freshmen or "fres" as they are colloquially known. There are some fourteen of these rules and the freshmen in question was accused of violating all of these rules at different times during the present session. For a time he was content to take the punishment meted out for each infraction, but lately he is accused of staging a miniature conspiracy and decided that he would not be punished for the infractions and that he would disobey the rules whenever he saw fit.
